

Careers

We're a small team that wants to make a difference. We do this by demonstrating the value of using data, evidence and technology to support decision-making across the social system, trialing new and innovative ways of working with government and NGOs, and developing social system tools and infrastructure that all agencies can use.

Representing many corners of the globe, our blend of qualifications, experience, ability, shared purpose and values are essential to the success of the SIA's work.
